Work ethic

We have found that some people have certain expectations about working with The Black Fish. Below are some aspects of our work ethic to avoid any unrealistic expectations on behalf of new applicants. Please acknowledge them by signing the boxes on the right.

I respect that as a matter of policy, all actions, campaigns, events and work environments of The Black Fish cater entirely vegan. I also accept that if I were to be accepted as a crew member, I have to abide by strict no-alcohol and no-drugs policies which are in place during ship and action operations.
I accept that in order to work effectively as a marine protection organisation, The Black Fish is organised in a certain hierarchical structure. This means I might be required to follow instructions from senior crew members. However, this should never prevent an inclusive working environment in which people feel ownership over the projects they are working on.
I understand that I cannot assume any rights by working with The Black Fish and that my working relationship might end at any time, at the discretion of the organisation.
I understand and agree that my work with The Black Fish is 100% voluntary and that I cannot expect any form of payment or compensation for incurred costs, other than the notion that my contributed work has benefited the cause of marine protection in Europe and beyond.
I am aware that if my application is succesful, I will be required to sign a number of additional agreements, including, but not limited to, the waiver of liability and non-disclosure agreement.

Motivation

What motivates you to want to work with The Black Fish? Please continue on a separate sheet of paper if necessary.

Application fee

Your application will be processed once we have received your application fee, which is € 75. The fee can be paid as a donation through The Black Fish website. Please note that this donation will have to be made in your own name. If this is not an option for you, please contact us. Online donation page: <http://www.theblackfish.org/donate.html>

Confirmation

I declare that the information I have given on this form is correct and complete. I agree for The Black Fish to use my personal information for the purpose of selecting a good working crew in order to take effective action for the protection of marine life in Europe. I understand that I cannot assume any rights by the submitting of this application or the payment of the application fee.
